

As a flight attendant,I don't believe we need another device on board the aircraft to cause further friction and disruptions among our customers.Passengers are sometimes on the edge due to various factors and more loud and sometimes rude conversations do not need to be added to their frustrations.Thank you